

Sharon Grove

Type: Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma

"I knew that I needed to fight this battle and win because I had three very important little people at home that needed me and I wanted to see them grow up," says Sharon. She was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma seven years ago, just weeks after her third child was born. Sharon says that because she fought cancer, she was able to spend more time with her children, and she grew closer to God, her family and her friends. "I believe it did change everyone around me in a positive way!"

The American Cancer Society presents: "Snapshot of Survival"

Photo sponsored by: Avera Cancer Institute, Photography by: Jael Trieb, Brookings